MATERA

Introduction

This Code of Ethics and Conduct is the set of ethical principles and standards, the objectives of which are to enhance the ethical culture and manage internal and external conflicts of interest of Matera and its companies that form part of the same economic group (hereinafter referred to as "Matera").

The principles that govern it are the company's values and purpose, and these are the basis for defining the guidelines that will guide the conduct of all employees, customers, suppliers, partners and the community n a transparent, respectful, and coherent way.

MATERA

Matera’s Purpose

Transforming our clients' businesses and facilitating access to financial services by developing safe, robust, and innovative solutions.

Our Values

How do we express our culture on our daily activities?

We do so through the values and behavior of every employee and leader.

- We got this!
- A better version of ourselves everyday
- We build human connections
- We have steadfast ethics
- Our focus is our client
- We are Restless
- We are strong together

Our Manifest

What brings us closer?
What makes us different and unique?

People do. We see respect, commitment, creative energy, cooperation, and courage in people. Thus, we dare and face change.

We are proud of our journey. We know that writing history does not mean being stuck in the past. It means aiming to be greater. It means challenging ourselves to continuously evolve. We do so by trusting one another, building partnerships, combining collaboration, capability, and subtlety.

What motivates us? Our clients, their plans, goals, and purposes do. What motivates us is the future they envision and how we engage with them. Together, we build momentum and forecast change.

We develop and deliver safe, robust, and innovative technological solutions which transform our clients' businesses and facilitate access to financial services.

When we look at our plural, ethical, inquisitive, inspiring, vibrant environment, we recognize our essence.
Thus, we impact all society.

We are passionate about what we do
We are Matera.

MATERA

Organizational Climate

The Matera Group values a work environment that is healthy, productive and that ensures motivation and satisfaction for its employees, where opinions are heard and respected, regardless of hierarchical level.

Respect

No form of disrespect in the work environment will be accepted, whether by acts of psychological harassment, sexual harassment, religious, political and party-political opinions, discrimination on the grounds of race, gender or disability, or by situations of intimidation, embarrassment, threat or violence.

Internal Relations

MATERA

Equality

It is our understanding that equality is present when all people have the same conditions with regard to work, development and expression. We apply this philosophy to everyone involved with the company: employees, clients, partners and the community.

Diversity

We value diversity and cherish equality and respect for all people, since we believe that a heterogeneous environment contributes not only to better work relationships, but also to a fairer, more egalitarian, inclusive and ethical society. We do not tolerate discrimination under any pretext.

MATERA

Conflict of Interest

We take this topic into consideration to manage personal conflicts of interest involving stakeholders or employees that could cause any harm to the company.

Thus, situations or activities that represent an actual or potential conflict between private interests and Matera's interests must be avoided. All stakeholders or employees shall obey the principle of not obtaining personal advantage or making improper use of any privileged information acquired in the course of their activities

Hiring of Relatives

The hiring or transfer of employees up to the fourth degree of kinship is allowed, as long as they are not in the same line of leadership or subordination. This restriction will continue throughout the period that the employees remain with the company.

Close Personal Relationships

Close personal relationships between employees are allowed as long as they are not in the same line of leadership or subordination. If the relationship occurs between employees in this condition, they will be relocated, as far as possible, to avoid conflicts of interest. This restriction will continue throughout the period that the employees remain with the company.

MATERA

Gifts

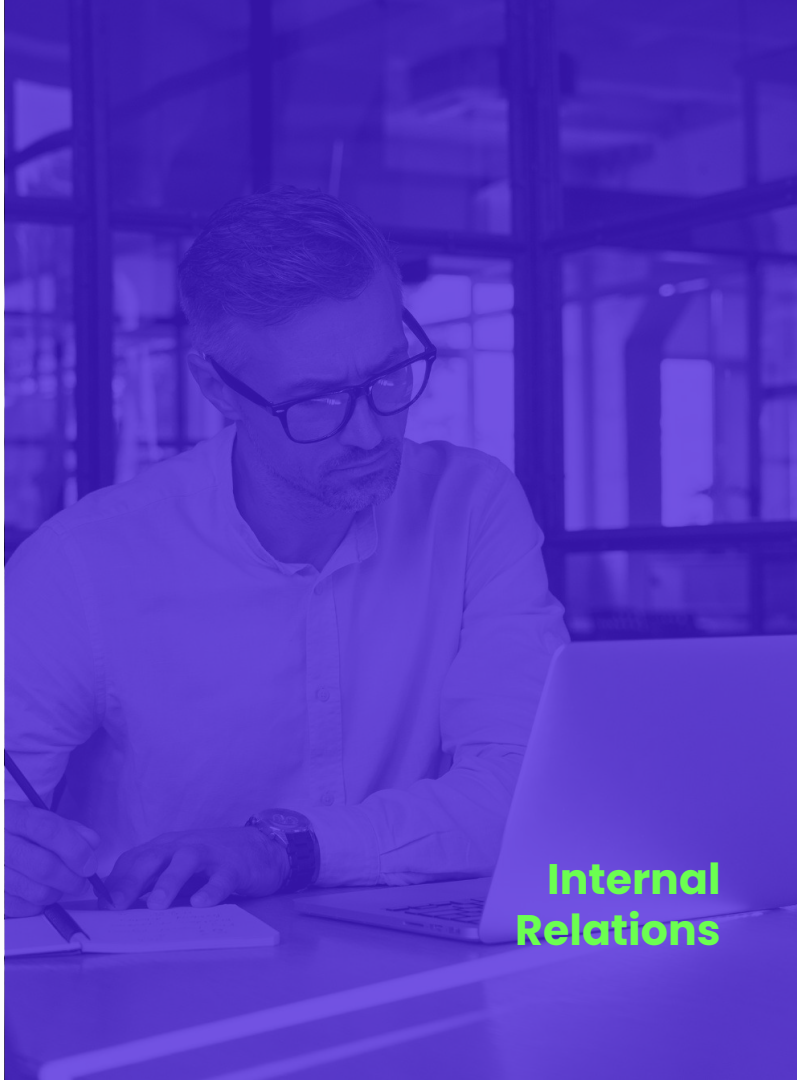
Receipt of gifts is allowed as long as they are of an institutional marketing nature. However, in the case of non-institutional gifts worth more than US$ 100.00, the item will be raffled and donated to social projects supported by the company or raffled between its employees.

Gifts and presents that generate expectations of something in return should not be accepted and/or offered. Other situations not described above must be evaluated by the employee's direct leader and/or the Compliance Committee.



MATERA

Parallel Activities

We consider parallel activities to be those that employees undertake outside of their working hours, whether or not they are paid for doing them. We respect this choice, but it is essential that it does not impact on their performance or their commitments to Matera and that they do not make an association between Matera and the activity they perform outside of Matera.

Activities that compete in any way with Matera's core business or that use Matera's intellectual property or in any way interfere with or negatively affect their activities at Matera or create conflicts of interest will not be tolerated.

MATERA

Media

Disclosures and interactions on social media and in the press must comply with the guidelines of this Code of Ethics and Conduct. Matera's values and our internal policies such as the Acceptable Use Policy, and legal compliance, privacy and good faith must prevail.

Our professionals must not divulge internal content, job assignments specific to the business, confidential company or client and partner information such as cases, results, projects, or any other data that could identify them, commercial information, disrespectful, harassing or discriminatory subjects or ideas.

Matera's image, reputation and confidentiality must be respected in all publications. Official communications from the group are restricted to the areas responsible and authorized spokespeople.

Suppliers, Service Providers , Third Parties and Partners

Matera expects its suppliers to share its values and comply with all applicable laws according to the region in which they operate. It is essential to this relationship that they prohibit fraud and corruption and respect human rights wherever they operate.

We do not favor supplier and partner selection processes, ensuring as a basis for choice aspects that guarantee the adequate result of risk and integrity analyses, the best cost-benefit and technicality of service provision, in accordance with Matera's Supplier Policy.

MATERA

We value a good relationship with our clients in order to ensure their satisfaction n relation to the products, services and care offered by the Company, thus maintaining a long-lasting relationship. We act with transparency, respect, and ethics, esteeming the secrecy involving the content of the work we do for them and any mention of names of companies, people or information that can identify them, without prior and express authorization of the Company, obligatorily taking care to ensure the integrity and confidentiality of information.

We improve our products with quality, always seeking solutions for the client, with integrity, transparency, in accordance with the values and guidelines described in this code.

Relations with Competitors

We maintain a professional and ethical relationship with our competitors, based on loyal management guided by respect for legal standards.

It is forbidden for any Matera Group employee to make verbal or written statements that may affect the image of competitors or contribute to spreading rumors about them.

Sustainability, Environment and Community

Matera Group understands that business activities impact the environment and recognizes its role in building a more sustainable future. Our commitment to the environment is part of our responsibility to society and future generations. We promote actions that contribute to improving education, social inclusion, and environmental awareness, especially in the regions where we operate.

We demonstrate our sustainable actions through the annual Sustainability Reports (ESG Report), which are available on the company's website.

Information Security

All employees are responsible for being familiar with, respect, and strictly apply the Information Security Policy and specific standards on the subject. Information security is not just a technical requirement, but the foundation of everything we do, guaranteeing the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of our data and our clients' data.

Prioritizing security allows us to maintain the market's trust and ensure the continuity and resilience of our operations in a constantly evolving digital environment.

Responsible Artificial Intelligence (AI) Use

At Matera, we embrace Artificial Intelligence in an ethical, responsible manner, aligned with our organizational values. We use AI as a tool to support innovation, optimization, operational efficiency, and to enhance human development. However, no application replaces the role of critical analysis and professional responsibility.

All AI-based solutions include human supervision and review, ensuring that every technological application is aligned with the standards of integrity, reliability, privacy, security, and adherence to company and this Code’s guidelines.

The responsible use of AI is regulated by a specific internal policy, which is mandatory for all of our professionals to observe

Confidentiality

We value the confidentiality of data and information of our customers, partners, employees and Matera itself. We detail and establish commitments and obligations in Confidentiality Agreements, which must be complied with by everyone.

Data Privacy and Protection

We are aware of the need to guarantee adequate protection to stakeholders in relation to personal data processing operations and we respect the right to privacy of all our employees, customers, suppliers and partners. We are committed to the correct and ethical use of data and information provided, especially in relation to the provisions of the General Law on Protection of Personal Data (Law No. 13709/2018), and we expect the same commitment with respect to persona data processed on behalf of, or for, the Matera Group.

Intellectual Property

We consider Matera's intellectual property to be an intangible and strategic asset that must be respected, cared for and protected by its employees. Accordingly, its employees declare that they are aware that all products or artifacts developed during the course of their professional activities for Matera are Matera's full and exclusive property.

Moreover, Matera employees shall respect the intellectual property of any third party and assume direct liability for any infringement of these rights.

Fraud and Corruption

Employees and service providers are prohibited from offering, accepting or contributing to bribery and any acts of fraud, corruption money laundering and/or terrorist financing in the performance of their activities. All employees are responsible for being familiar with, complying with and implementing Matera's Anti-Fraud and Corruption Policy, as well as to undertake to make the reports provided for in this Policy to the Compliance Department.

MATERA

Occupational Safety and Occupational Health

At Matera, our dedication to the comprehensive safety, health, and well-being of our professionals is paramount. We recognize physical and mental health as a vital component in our technology environment, and we actively seek continuous improvement in working conditions and the maintenance of a clean and safe space for everyone. Furthermore, we are committed to promoting fair conditions, free from coercion and slave labor. We ensure compliance with human rights legislation and conventions, and we extend this requirement to all our partners and suppliers, strengthening trust in our operations.

Public Officials and Trade Unions

Relations with government or public authorities must always be based on transparency and integrity, respecting the laws in force in Brazil and in the countries where we operate, always based on ethical behavior.

The Matera Group recognizes and respects the free association of professionals and, in order to guarantee the necessary involvement in labor relations, it has a relationship with trade unions.

Assets and Property

All employees are responsible for the integrity of the company's property, equipment and facilities and for using them in a responsible manner. Electronic resources in general, including the use of cell phones, notebooks and corporate emails, belong to Matera and its subsidiaries and are made available strictly for professional purposes, in accordance with specific terms regulating their use.

Donation and Sponsorship

Matera is committed to social responsibility and supports the development of the environment in which it operates. The Matera Group prohibits making any donations or sponsorships in its name to politicians, political parties, candidates for political office or public officials and/or religious Group.

Our relationship with the community requires authorizations, transparency preliminary analysis and accountability.

Management of this Code

It is the responsibility of all professionals to respect, apply, and observe this Code of Ethics and Conduct, as well as to provide feedback for improvements.

Any potential cases of non-compliance with this Code must be reported to your immediate leader or directly to the Ethics Committee.

The Matera Compliance Committee should be consulted to resolve any questions or cases that are not covered by the provisions of this Code of Ethics and Conduct.

Matera encourages all employees to immediately report any suspected violations of this Code. The anonymity of the employee and the confidentiality of the case will be ensured.

The measures applied for misconduct may be educational or corrective disciplinary actions, warnings, suspension of activities and even dismissal, depending on the severity of the situation, subject to appropriate legal measures.

The Code of Ethics and Conduct is reviewed every two years, or whenever changes are necessary, and must be approved by senior management at a board meeting.

Reporting Channels

The provisions of this Code shall be managed by the Company's Ethics Committee.
Any doubts, questions, general communications or specific situations should be addressed to Matera's Ethics and Conduct Channel.

To ensure confidentiality, secrecy, transparency and agility in the activities pertaining to the Reporting Channel, the Ethics Committee will only proceed with the complaint investigation process when reports are formalized through Matera's official reporting channel.

This Code of Ethics and Conduct is a document that requires the collaboration, commitment and participation of all Matera Group stakeholders in order to be effective. To do so, concerns about conduct need to be communicated in good faith and anyone can report something they believe to be honest information so that the Ethics Committee can investigate and apply the appropriate measures, ensuring that the identity of the person reporting them is kept confidential and that no retaliation will occur.

MATERA

Disclosure and Acceptance of this Code

All professionals are subject to the provisions of this Code and must sign their agreement upon their affiliation with the Matera Group or the receipt of this Code. Furthermore, they are obligated to complete its annual training.

In addition, Matera Group suppliers and partners must express their acceptance of our Code or demonstrate their maturity in their documentation, according to the integrity level established by the Matera Group
